

Elizabeth Ann Looks About Town and She Says

*Our shops are bright
With things so new,
Why not go shopping?
Come on, let's do,
For these wonderful
Inspiring days,
Give us "pep"
In many ways.
After lookings over
From coast to coast,
Feel quite proud,
Inclined to boast
Of the advantages we have
Right here at home.
No matter what your need may be,
Look around and you will see
Your heart's desire
Right here at home*

There is an artistic exclusiveness in the atmosphere of Miss Jackson's Shop, in the Sinclair Building, which gives one inspiration and ideas that are only created by suggestion. This week I want to tell you about some lovely hand-made Indian Linen Luncheon Sets, some are hand embroidered in unique designs and they are showing a pleasing variety of sizes and styles.

The satin undershirt of a Premet gown is veiled with black tulle that hangs a bit below the hem.

It is always interesting to know Miss Lehigh is back from New York, for she brings a wealth of new ideas and knowledge. "Would take colors to tell you about them so I ask you to run in and see them for yourself at her smart Vogue Shop in the New Wright Building.

Flounces, ruffles, scallops, tunics and sheath shapes are cleverly arranged to simulate flower petals and stems in the lovely flower gowns.

Clever new gifts for everyone on display at S. J. McGee, 23 West Third.

Plaided wools are in higher favor this season than striped wools.

A veritable Fairyland is the Mary Jane's Children's Shop, 16 East Fifth, where you find the cleverest ideas in gifts for the infants and children of all ages.

Plain, patent and suede leathers are in vogue as trimming on tailleur belts, collars, jacket borders and occasionally skirt hem.

Now tell me, were hats ever so stunning as now? When I dropped in to see Miss Herold's artistic hats on Sept. 27, West Third, the other day, one of the young ladies took me to their new French room (and it is a dream), where I saw hats with the New York atmosphere in models suitable for all occasions.

In a French play is worn a superb frock—draped robe of lustrous silver tissue trimmed with silver fringe, which looks like silver hair.

Among the most called for draperies at the Home Decorating Co., 311 South Boston, are the panel lace roller shades which make such effective window treatments. The custom door hangings. The manner in which these draperies are attached and weighted makes them ever graceful and neat and they are particularly pleasing in the sun parlor. They are shown in a variety of designs by the Home Decorating Co., who will make them up to any measure.

Buttons and buckles of tortoise shell and galalith ornament the blouse.

Among the happy happenings of last week was the formal fall opening of the Artistic Shop, 15 West Fifth, where you will find an unusual exhibition of Pathé photographs. Prominent in this collection is the New Accutelle in the Gothic model, which Mr. Brown tells me is the only machine of its kind in the West. You will enjoy both seeing and hearing this wonderful instrument.

These days there is a good deal of national independence about matters of dress. Women, Americans as well as England, are doing foot work, as they once did, to adopt every fashion that comes from France.

The smart Glove-Pitted Twenties Boat Tops are shown by Akin's Boudoir in a variety of colors.

The general rule for draped skirts is an equal amount of material at the hips and the hem, the occasional greater fullness at the hips being the exception that proves this rule.

"The hills are raining for me and my gal." Make this an important event in your life more ideal by choosing the Superior Art Printers' wedding invitations and announcements.

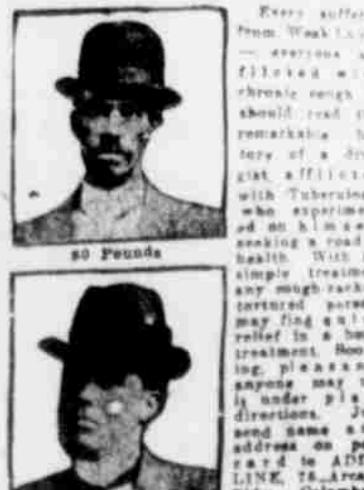

Curled ostrich in pastel shades make a lovely trimming for negligees of georgette and silk.

"Cured Myself of Tuberculosis."

Every woman from Rock City—every woman who has chronic cough should read this remarkable history of a drug girl afflicted with Tuberculosis, who experiments led her to a cure and to health. With all simple treatments and rough naked treatment, she may find relief in a home treatment. Both men and women, if anyone may use it under plain directions. Just send name and address on a post card to ADDILINE, 75 Broad Street, Columbus, Ohio.

Take this advertisement to the drug store and be sure to get the genuine NELSON'S.

Nelson Manufacturing Co., Inc.
RICHMOND, VA.

among the farmed wool fabrics which give warmth without weight.

Never were serge and satin, tweed and crepeette, velvet and cotton gels more youthful and trim than in the smart Co-Ed dresses at Remberg's for young women and women who want to stay young.

Japanese embroidery in large squares forms the trimming of many a serge dress.

"Seeing is believing," that is why I suggest that you visit the delicate Littleton Studios, 215 West Fourth. Their windows are always attractive, showing pictures of their artistic and natural posing as well as their unequalled finish and mounting.

Black satin and lace fashion an especially dainty pair of mules for boudoir wear.

I was "canning those present" at the Hat Shop, 12 East Fifth, when some charming black velvet poker with colorful underlining were unpacked.

For ultra-smart wear the "redem" chemise" is passe.

There is an interesting announcement in today's paper by the Chauveline, 114 South Main. Look for it.

There is no autocratic rule in the kingdom of hats, so some of the tall hats are large of brim and others have no brim at all.

Life in this woman's town is just one step after another. The fashion pastes at the Indian Trading Post, 314 South Main, will help you to decide on what is correct in style.

The velvet chapman will find a rival this season in the hat of day.

Looking about the establishment of Mrs. Neil Eyles, 367 Main building, I have seen some of the dearest, daintiest hats—embroidered, hand-sewned dreams for the little girls who are anywhere between 10 or two or half past 14. This smart shop is always on the alert for new ideas and makes everything to order.

Gold, raven blue, mole and emerald green are worn by Mildred Harris in the society drama, "Forbidden," which will be shown at the Majestic Theater Thursday, Friday and Saturday of this week. As everyone knows, Mrs. Charlie Chaplin always wears costumes as lovely as her own self.

Brown wool plaided in green fashion striking top coat which combines this color scheme in its collar of brown broadcloth striped in green plaid.

Charming becoming and ex-tremely smart are the new Sport Coats, Sweaters and Skirts at Miss Lehigh's Vogue Shop in the New Wright Building.

"Jennine d' Arc" is the name given to a new silk and metal tricot out of which effective blouses are being created.

The ever popular Tea Cup Inn has certainly become the rendezvous for people who have good things to eat and tell you about their characters and dreams. You will also find a room for private dancing parties.

At the fall and winter convention of the Fashion Art League of America recently costumes created by the members were exhibited.

You certainly would look charmingly up-to-the-minute in one of those nifty hats they are showing at that clever Bon Ton Millinery, 15 East Third.

A few cape dresses have large shawl collars on the Little Red Riding Hood order.

Mrs. Carpenter is back from the East and is all enthusiasm about the new models of that well known Howard Corset. Phone her at the Marquette hotel for an appointment and you will not be sorry.

Duvetins and velours de laine are made of for it weighs less than 200 grammes.

Marcel, waving at New York Hair Shop and Beauty Parlors, 319 South Main, over Remberg's Famous American Toilet Articles.

Eric has conceived an exquisite fan of alabaster, mounted on a hand-circled silver frame. The spray of alabaster must match your gown, of course, and the jewel at the bottom of the frame repeats the color.

Every one is getting back for our lovely fall season. Among the prettiest is Miss Lehigh, who has had a most interesting trip to New York, where you should see the charming hats, trimmings and laces she brought back with her, but my idea of mind was complete when I saw her developing a street dress of some wonderfully soft black material and a gorgeous evening gown which I dare not describe.

The tailors of 1919 have not the slightest suggestion of the old-time stiffened tailor-made.

Never have furs been more in favor than this season, and never have fur-trimmed hats been more beautiful as far as design and quality are concerned. This Shubert collection includes the most exclusive models in fashion's favored furs for every occasion. The display includes coats, capes, scarfs and stoles in sable, ermine, chinchilla, mink, mink, mink, fox and all other desirable furs.

Though Parisiens are wearing their skirts a bit shorter, said skirts are not yet within speaking distance of the ankle.

Very quiet "jackets" are popular this season in the hat of day.

Looking about the establishment of Mrs. Neil Eyles, 367 Main building, I have seen some of the dearest, daintiest hats—embroidered, hand-sewned dreams for the little girls who are anywhere between 10 or two or half past 14. This smart shop is always on the alert for new ideas and makes everything to order.

Gold, raven blue, mole and emerald green are worn by Mildred Harris in the society drama, "Forbidden," which will be shown at the Majestic Theater Thursday, Friday and Saturday of this week.

Light enough to fly in the air, these hats will delight you as well as the young girls to be found at the Mary Jane's Children's Shop, 15 East Fifth.

One of the most charming street frocks imaginable is one of black duvetin, and its bold buttons over a shawl-like collar of brown faille.

Sepherine is dressing time and sold it is with a help to have the White Sewing Machine Co., 213 East Third, do the hemstitching for you.

Light enough to fly in the air, these hats will delight you as well as the young girls to be found at the Mary Jane's Children's Shop, 15 East Fifth.

The experiments have shown that in the majority of cases found on which the rats thrive is equally good for babies.

Journalist Is Honored.

PARIS, Sept. 27.—William Marton, a native of Norway, Czar, has been promoted officer in the Legion of Honor for "rendering eminent services in the French cause, in America, in England and Italy, by his writings." Mr. Marton was for years in the Paris office of the London Times.

RATS, GUINEA PIGS AND BABIES ALL EAT ALIKE

IOWA CITY, Ia., Sept. 27.—White rats and guinea pigs are being used in experiments to determine whether food for babies now being conducted in the child welfare research station of the University of Iowa.

The food is being tested and compared with the greatest care, and the results on the rats and pigs are as follows:

The experiments have shown that in the majority of cases found on which the rats thrive is equally good for babies.

More British War Medals.

LONDON, Sept. 27.—The King has directed that the Legion of Honor medal, which is granted only to men of rank, will be given to the naval and naval officers who have awarded certain men of the British dominions, colonial and Indian mercantile marine. The medal, in silver, will be given men of the classes who served at sea for not less than six months in the war period. Bronze medals for marines will be given to all men who served in the classes named who served at sea on at least one voyage through a danger zone.

Having been attacked at sunrise by seven Germans, he disabled them with his revolver and bayonet and made short work of the remaining four.

While advancing he found a wounded soldier and putting him in the hands of another soldier in order to transport him to the rear, continued the advance toward the objective.

Having been attacked at sunrise by seven Germans, he disabled them with his revolver and bayonet and made short work of the remaining four.

While advancing he found a wounded soldier and putting him in the hands of another soldier in order to transport him to the rear, continued the advance toward the objective.

Having been attacked at sunrise by seven Germans, he disabled them with his revolver and bayonet and made short work of the remaining four.

While advancing he found a wounded soldier and putting him in the hands of another soldier in order to transport him to the rear, continued the advance toward the objective.

Having been attacked at sunrise by seven Germans, he disabled them with his revolver and bayonet and made short work of the remaining four.

While advancing he found a wounded soldier and putting him in the hands of another soldier in order to transport him to the rear, continued the advance toward the objective.

Having been attacked at sunrise by seven Germans, he disabled them with his revolver and bayonet and made short work of the remaining four.

While advancing he found a wounded soldier and putting him in the hands of another soldier in order to transport him to the rear, continued the advance toward the objective.

Having been attacked at sunrise by seven Germans, he disabled them with his revolver and bayonet and made short work of the remaining four.

While advancing he found a wounded soldier and putting him in the hands of another soldier in order to transport him to the rear, continued the advance toward the objective.

Having been attacked at sunrise by seven Germans, he disabled them with his revolver and bayonet and made short work of the remaining four.

While advancing he found a wounded soldier and putting him in the hands of another soldier in order to transport him to the rear, continued the advance toward the objective.

Having been attacked at sunrise by seven Germans, he disabled them with his revolver and bayonet and made short work of the remaining four.

While advancing he found a wounded soldier and putting him in the hands of another soldier in order to transport him to the rear, continued the advance toward the objective.

Having been attacked at sunrise by seven Germans, he disabled them with his revolver and bayonet and made short work of the remaining four.

While advancing he found a wounded soldier and putting him in the hands of another soldier in order to transport him to the rear, continued the advance toward the objective.

Having been attacked at sunrise by seven Germans, he disabled them with his revolver and bayonet and made short work of the remaining four.

While advancing he found a wounded soldier and putting him in the hands of another soldier in order to transport him to the rear, continued the advance toward the objective.

Having been attacked at sunrise by seven Germans, he disabled them with his revolver and bayonet and made short work of the remaining four.

While advancing he found a wounded soldier and putting him in the hands of another soldier in order to transport him to the rear, continued the advance toward the objective.

Having been attacked at sunrise by seven Germans, he disabled them with his revolver and bayonet and made short work of the remaining four.

While advancing he found a wounded soldier and putting him in the hands of another soldier in order to transport him to the rear, continued the advance toward the objective.

Having been attacked at sunrise by seven Germans, he disabled them with his revolver and bayonet and made short work of the remaining four.

While advancing he found a wounded soldier and putting him in the hands of another soldier in order to transport him to the rear, continued the advance toward the objective.

Having been attacked at sunrise by seven Germans, he disabled them with his revolver and bayonet and made short work of the remaining four.

While advancing he found a wounded soldier and putting him in the hands of another soldier in order to transport him to the rear, continued the advance toward the objective.

Having been attacked at sunrise by seven Germans, he disabled them with his revolver and bayonet and made short work of the remaining four.

While advancing he found a wounded soldier and putting him in the hands of another soldier in order to transport him to the rear, continued the advance toward the objective.

Having been attacked at sunrise by seven Germans, he disabled them with his revolver and bayonet and made short work of the remaining four.

While advancing he found a wounded soldier and putting him in the hands of another soldier in order to transport him to the rear, continued the advance toward the objective.

Having been attacked at sunrise by seven Germans, he disabled them with his revolver and bayonet and made short work of the remaining four.

While advancing he found a wounded soldier and putting him in the hands of another soldier in order to transport him to the rear, continued the advance toward the objective.

Having been attacked at sunrise by seven Germans, he disabled them with his revolver and bayonet and made short work of the remaining four.

While advancing he found a wounded soldier and putting him in the hands of another soldier in order to transport him to the rear, continued the advance toward the objective.

Having been attacked at sunrise by seven Germans, he disabled them with his revolver and bayonet and made short work of the remaining four.

While advancing he found a wounded soldier and putting him in the hands of another soldier in order to transport him to the rear, continued the advance toward the objective.

Having been attacked at sunrise by seven Germans, he disabled them with his revolver and bayonet and made short work of the remaining four.

While advancing he found a wounded soldier and putting him in the hands of another soldier in order to transport him to the rear, continued the advance toward the objective.

Having been attacked at sunrise by seven Germans, he disabled them with his revolver and bayonet and made short work of the remaining four.

While advancing he found a wounded soldier and putting him in the hands of another soldier in order to transport him to the rear, continued the advance toward the objective.